FROM THE BEACH

The Summer Sojourners Are Fleeing,

To Get Far Away From the Cholera.

Coney Island Deserted by the Bathers.

People in These Times Take No Chances.

More Sickness on Board the Three Boats Which Have Been Ordered Into Quarantine.

Coney Island, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The exodus from the hotels here continued throughout yesterday and night found many almost depopulated. Early in the morning the big Oriental informed its few remaining guests that the last meal would be served to-day and that any who cared to remain would be accommodated at the Manhattan beach hotel. A similar notice was given at the Brighton beach hotel. At Bath beach hotel there has been an exodus also and the guests at the Grand Review, at Fort Hamilton, have dwindled from several hundred to twenty within a week.

Bathing is practically at an end as the health authorities have advised its discontinuance owing to infected refuse being thrown from steamers lying in quarantine. At most points fishing has been prohibited by special order.

The story of two sailors from the Moravia landing at Bath beach, turned out to be untrue. The men came from Mr. Lorillard's yacht anchored in Gravesend bay, abreast of Bath beach.

Quarantine, Sept. 5.—The tug Nichols with the Italian reception committee boarded the transport Gargialino off Tompkinsville, S. I., at 8:45 a. m. today. At 9:10 the Gargialiano was released from quarantine and proceeded to the city.

FRIGHTENED SHIPLOAD.

More Cases Break Out on the Quarantined Steamers.

Quarantine, Sept. 5.—On board the plague-stricken Hamburg-American line of steamships, the Normannia, Rugia and Moravia, there was much excitement Sunday, caused by the spread of the terrible disease—chorela.

During the 24 hours ending at 3 p. m., there were three deaths on the Normannia, six new cases among the steerage passengers and two among the crew.

Two of the Rugia's patients have died and the 3-year old boy aboard the Moravia, who was stricken on Friday, has also been numbered among the dead.

More deaths are expected and if there existed any doubt that the disease aboard these vessels was not cholera, it has been dismissed now. In the lower bay the passengers aboard the quarantine vessels welcomed a mild summer day which was accompanied by a cold breeze from the north.

Time hung heavily at the upper quarantine boarding station among all who were on ships anchored there awaiting developments. Time did not hang heavily with Health Officer Jenkins and his staff, and the minutes were all too short. From early morning until late at night they labored ceaselessly.

The fleet of vessels anchored north of the Narrows excepting the arrivals during the night. These were the French liner La Bourgogne, the Fulna, from Genoa, and the Panama, from South American ports. During the morning and later in the day they were reinforced by the arrivals of the Darmstadt from Bremen, and the Brilliant, an oil tank steamer, Captain Kellar, from Altona, a small port near Hamburg. It was in the afternoon that Dr. Jenkins gave the Stubbenhuk permission to pass from the lower bay to the upper quarantine station. A searching examination had been made of the ship, and as the health of all on board was good she was accordingly passed. As in the case of all other vessels now at the upper station, the steerage and baggage will be disinfected before they can go to their wharves. The La Bourgogne's mail was taken to New York and her cabin passengers will probably be passed up this morning.

Had All Been Dismissed

Dr. Jenkins left at noon for the lower bay. He was accompanied by the quarantine commissioners. Late in the afternoon Commissioner Allen returned with disheartening news from the stricken vessels, leaving the health officer down the bay. Dr. Jenkins did not return during the daylight, but sent ashore a telegraph dispatch ordering the pest boat Franklin Edson to proceed to the stricken ships at once. She will probably remain there until the cholera is effectually stamped out. On her arrival Dr. Tallmadge, who was on duty from early morning, directed that the dead be removed to Swinburne island and there cremated. This work accomplished, the sick were transferred to the Swinburne island hospital, and as dispatch must necessarily be used in the case of the Normannia, her steerage passengers were next removed on the transfer boat William Fletcher to Hoffmann island, and the disinfection system started on them. At that time the saloon passengers on the Normannia were in a badly frightened condition.

One gentlemen walked up to Dr. Jenkins and told him that he could raise $5,000 on board in an instant if permission would be given to charter a boat and remove the cabin passengers to where she could be anchored north of the pest grounds until they could be released. Every one of them believe that the Normannia is an infected vessel, and this has produced among them the greatest anxiety. Dr. Jenkins could not say that this would be done, but promised to earnestly consider the proposition. Everyone on board has been urged to keep up a stout heart, but notwithstanding they are naturally alarmed, and of course there is little attempt made to conceal their trepidation. With few exceptions they are all dieting themselves. Dr. Jenkins early in the day saw the advisability of establishing a permanent headquarters in the lower bay from which to board incoming ships, and accordingly ordered the hosptial ship, S. D. Carlton, to be towed down in the Horse Shoe, which is the strip of water directly north of Sandy Hook. The Hamburg-American company was advised of the step taken in regard to its vessels, and a tug was sent to Hoffman Island loaded with provisions.

Dr. Jenkins' visits to the Rugia and Moravia were short. He also visited the hospital islands, and in the afternoon several officials of the New York city health department steamed down the bay on a tug to see him. The police patrol reported early in the day for duty, and warned all passing vessels to keep a safe distance. Masters of vessels of all descriptions began to realize the gravity of the situation, and give the pest ships a wide berth. Dr. Jenkins had promised the newspaper men, the number of whom had been greatly augmented last night, that he would see them late yesterday afternoon, and at 9 o'clock they were still awaiting his return from the lower bay.

The foregoing facts show that the outlook is dark and all hands are preparing for a long siege. As to the probabilities of the disease getting into the country there need be no alarm if the present precautions are carried out. Sober thought, a careful observation of the directions as to cleanliness and cheerful compliance with health regulations will produce the result most desired at this critical time. An evidence of the proper attitude at this time was the hearty cheers of the La Bourgoogne's passengers during the examination to-day when told of the precautions necessary. They were all ready to wait until it was deemed proper for them to be released.

REPORTERS WITH NERVE.

They Were Trying to Board the Steamer Normannia.

New York, Sept. 5.—The Herald says that at 1 o'clock this morning while Capt. Harry McKenzie, of the health tug Crystal Water was taking some supplies to the Normannia, he noticed when within a hundred yards of the Normannia, two strange tugs lying near by. One of the tugs had no lights up.

Capt. McKenzie signalled, but got no reply. Upon approaching the Normannia he discovered a row boat alongside. He hailed the row boat but two men who were in it made no reply. He then ran down the row boat and smashed its oars. He reported this to Dr Jenkins upon his return to quarantine. The doctor, he says, said to him:

"That's right. Served them right." The men in the boat were, it is believed, reporters who were trying to get aboard the Normannia.

A BUSY DAY.

Officers in New York Having All They Can Attend To.

Quarantine, Sept. 5.—Labor day promises to be one of greater work for the quarantine officers than any of the previous days since the arrival of the Moravia. At the health officers' quarters all was quiet at midnight, and the fleet at anchor off the upper boarding station was being slowly enveloped in a mantle of fog which was lazily wafted from the lower bay like apall from the pest fleet at anchor within the boundaries of the sanitary roadstead.

When the lights aboard no longer twinkled there came sharply to the ear the tones of the fog bells struck by the anchor watch.

La Bourgogne, the French liner, was first heard from, and ere the echoes against the bluff on which stands the residence of the health officer, had died away, the signal was taken up by the Fulda, the Stubbenhuk, the Darmstadt, and the Brilliant; the latter last as became her position as the least important of the squadron in point of number of lives aboard.

Like funeral bells tolling for the unfortunates of the infected ships seemed the warnings from the fleet, the strokes rapid withal as if to emphasize the desire to be free of the restraint and anxiety to be safely moored at their respective piers.

For an hour the voices of the night continued, and then, as if the mournful procession had passed, their doleful music ceased and the outlines of the floating homes of hundreds of weary watchers within the motionless hulls came into sharp relief on the surface of the tide rushing inward throughout the narrows.

At daybreak lights were extinguished and smoke curling from the tugs at the quarantine dock served all too forcibly as a reminder of the sorrowful round of inspection that would make the sixth day since the arrival of the first infected vessel.

The developments of Sunday gave token of what might be expected to-day, and as the officials began their round each face too plainly indicated the dread question: "What will the harvest be?"

On La Bourgogne the passengers were early astir in the hope that having been passed individually by the inspecting officers yesterday they would speed away for New York.

The consular certificates of sanitary inspection from the Havre authorities and Dr. Jenkins' indorsement that all were found well on arrival at quarantine here, gave them reasonable grounds for the anticipated release especially as the cabin passengers from the Fulda from the Mediterranean had been allowed to proceed to the city last evening on the steamboat Rosa.

When the morning gun on Fort Wadsworth greeted the rising sun the British freight steamer Alene, from Liverpool, her hull resplendent with a new coat of drap with dark trimmings, picked her way gingerly through the fleet and at 6:25 anchored astern of the Darmstadt.

ARE GOING ASHORE.

Passengers on the Normannia Violating the Rules.

Quarantine, Sept. 5.—When informed this morning that the World had tugs alongside the Normannia at lower quarantine last night, in violation of his repeated orders, Dr. Jenkins immediately wrote an autograph to Mayor Grant, which went to the city at 9:30. His communication was in substance as follows:

"Will you kindly furnish six trained policemen, who are oarsmen as well, for duty at lower quarantine. If this meets your approval please have them report here for duty. They will be stationed on the Carleton."

A report from the city this morning that Senator McPherson had left the Normannia and been seen in the city on Sunday evening was at once laid before Dr. Jenkins by a representative of the United Press. He exclaimed, "I don't believe it." He then asked when he was seen and where, but details had not been given in the report from the city. The doctor said he should investigate the matter; that he had spoken to McPherson about the letter in a Saturday paper for which the senator expressed regret to him and said that any further presentment of like nature would be without his sanction and would not emanate from him.

BROTHER BLAINE.

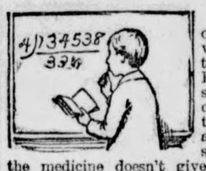
He Has Some Ideas on the Cholera Question.

New York, Sept. 5.—A special to the Times from Bangor, Me., says that Mr. Blaine has recently expressed to a friend his views of the clear duty of the government in the matter of the cholera danger.

In substance it is to close traffic between the old country, Canada and the United States to every body and everything, save the mails and citizens of this country now abroad, and to admit these only after perfect precaution.

His idea is that there is not and cannot be commercial relations which for a moment are to be considered in comparison with safety to life. He wants everything now on the water on the way from the old world kept from the land and a discontinuance of all foreign traffic across the states.

Then he would have the border policed to perfection, a rigid examination in all cities and towns of fruit and he believes that Harrison has the power to so order by proclamation and that there are no treaty rights to prevent it.



It isn't done by others—that's why the guarantee of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription should command attention. It's a guarantee that means something. If the medicine doesn't give satisfaction, in every case for which it's recommended, the money is promptly refunded. Remarkable terms—but it's a remarkable medicine. All the functional irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to womankind are cured by it. For leucorrhea, periodical pains, weak back, prolapsus and other displacements, bearing-down sensations, and all "female complaints," it's an unfailing remedy. It is a powerful, restorative tonic and nervine, imparting strength and vigor to the whole system.

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results.

Try it, if you're an ailing woman.

WARRING TEACHERS.

They Hold a Stormy Session in Delaware.

The City and County Pedagogues Meet in Convention to Clash.

Delaware, O., Sept. 5.—An antipathy between two factions of the County Teachers' association, the city contingent and the country contingent, culminated in a bitter fight over the election of officers here.

For several years the city faction has had the control of affairs in the institute, much to the chagrin of the country teachers; but this year the latter were in the majority, and made a slate whereby they would fill the quota. They put their president through with a rush, whereupon Miss H. M. Pierce, the principal of the High school here, delivered a strong invective upon certain members of the institute and the scheme to "run in" officers. She was answered and sat down upon by Prof. W. O. Semans.

After the election of five vice presidents the most disgraceful part of the proceeding commenced with the election of the secretary. Three names were proposed, when some one in the back of the audience nominated Miss Pierce. That lady arose to decline, when a storm of hisses necessitated her taking her seat again. The scene was the most disgraceful scrap in the association's history, and created great excitement throughout the city.

Over 275 teachers participated in the trouble. The officers elected are as follows: President, M. N. Miller; first vice president, A. S. Conklin; second vice president, W. Campbell; third vice president, Miss Mattie Ainsworth; fourth vice president, J. W. Cross; fifth vice president, E. P. Hoover; secretary, Mrs. J. H. Gerhart; treasurer, E. A. Brobst; executive committee, H. T. Main, D. E. Cowgill, D. C. Meek, Miss Maggie Barnwell and Miss J. Roney.

FOUND THE LOST CABIN MINE.

The Famous and Long-Sought Storehouse of Treasure Discovered.

Deadwood, S. D., Sept. 5.—William S. Dany came into this city to-day, bringing with him several thousand dollars' worth of gold nuggets and a number of specimens of ore fairly bristling with gold. Dany claims to have found the "Lost Cabin" mine, of which so much that is romantic has been written and printed in every modern language. His story is that two weeks ago, while hunting in the western part of the Black hills, he stumbled into what he at first supposed was a small cave, but which upon subsequent investigation proved to be a room, 30x20 feet and of an average height of seven feet, rudely hewn out of solid rock by human hands. This room he first discovered to contain the skeleton of a human being, which, exciting his curiosity, induced a search that was rewarded by finding gold nuggets of an aggregate value of $25,000. The place was many miles from a settlement, and he remained until a week ago searching for the mine from which the nuggets came. He claims to have found it, and states the ore he has was taken from it. The fact that Dany has so much ore with him lends plausibility to the story, which is creating a great deal of excitement and will cause numerous prospecting parties to start out.

NOW HISCOCK IS MAD.

Harrison Has Not Bettered His Affairs.

Platt is Placated But What of the Others.

The Indiana Statesman Having a Hard Row to Hoe in Retaining His White House Chair.

New York, Sept. 5.—There is one discordant note in the republican harmony program in this state. Senator Hiscock and certain members of the Union League club do not approve of the president's making up with Thomas C. Platt.

They tried to prevent it, and are disposed to criticise the president for resuming relations with the Tioga statesman. Mr. Hiscock has all along had an ambition to be recognized as the great leader of the republican party in this state. He served in the senate with Mr. Harrison, and believed that his personal acquaintance with the president would give him the inside track.

He chafed under the oft-repeated statement that he was Mr. Platt's messenger boy. It was gall and wormwood to the Syracuse Adonis. Mr. Platt's friends say that Mr. Hiscock didn't prove to be a very faithful messenger boy. They accuse him of being in a large measure responsible for the coldness that sprung up between the president and Mr. Platt six months prior to the Minneapolis convention. At any rate they say Mr. Hiscock didn nothing to heal the breach when it started, and, in fact, secretly helped to widen it.

Now that Mr. Reid, with the assistance of Chairman Carter, Mr. Brookfield, Mr. Hackett and Mr. Fassett, has succeeded in bringing the president and Mr. Pratt together again, Mr. Hiscock is said to regard it as an invasion of his rights. He was opposed to "placating" Mr. Platt, but wanted the credit of the placating, if it was to be done. The element in the Union League that is kicking against the recognition of Mr. Platt does not include Cornelius N. Bliss. Mr. Bliss, like Mr. Hiscock, took the position after the Minneapolis convention that Mr. Platt should not be placated. He changed his mind subsequently, and advised securing Mr. Platt's co-operation.

Mr. Platt, however, is not a favorite with the members of the Union league. His comments on the Union League club as a political factor have been more forcible than polite. Mr. Platt has referred to the Union leaguers on several occasions as dilettanti politicians who spent their time in gazing out of the club windows instead of engaging in the active work of politics. Consequently when Mr. Bliss modified his views about the advisability of securing Mr. Platt's services in the campaign he could not take all of the Union league with him.

They have been protesting against the "unlucky alliance" with Mr. Platt, and would like to make trouble.

The question is asked, how will the Harrison managers get along without the campaign contributions of the Union League club? To this it was said at the headquarters of the republican national committee to-day that the Union league as a club had given very little of late years to the republican campaign fund, and hence no great anxiety was felt on that score.

Senator Hiscock's kick, it is understood, will also be ignored by the republican leaders. He, they say, has failed to demonstrate that he has any following in the state to speak of. He was placed in charge of the president's interests here last spring, and pledged him 50 votes from this state at the Minneapolis convention. He had the federal government at his back, and yet the president got less than thirty of New York's 72 votes. On top of this record Mr. Hiscock has been completely knocked out at his own home by Congressman Belden. Some time ago he announced with a great flourish of trumpets that Mr. Belden would not be renominated. Mr. Belden was not only renominated, but his friends named the candidates for assembly and all the county officials as well.

Two or three things were settled at the Ophir Farm conference, according to the best authorities of the G. O. P. One of them was that Mr. Platt and Mr. Miller would have absolute control of the party, and the cordial support of the Harrison administration. Another is that Mr. Hiscock will not be renominated in any event.

If the republicans have a majority in the legislature, Warner Miller can go to the senate again if he wishes to do so. This arrangement, it is believed, would suit Mr. Miller first rate. He found the senate a very congenial place and he hated to leave it. He was keenly disappointed when he was defeated by Mr. Hiscock six years ago. Mr. Miller would like to be revenged on Mr. Hiscock and he would be delighted to resume his old place in the senate.

KILLED WITH THE FIST

Of a Puller-in for a Baxter Street Clothing House.

A Printer Gets the Worst of It While Showing a Tramp Brother the Town.

New York, Sept. 5.—M. J. Walsh, a wandering printer, ill-clad and weary-looking, came to New York from Scranton last night, and went with a local printer, Thomas Cowes, up Baxter street, "to see how they live" there. After being tackled by two pullers-in, and let go because they had no money, they started to cross the street.

What followed this is best told by Walsh. "Cowes told me," he said, "that the only way to get rid of those pullers-in was either to show fight or call the police. We crossed the street, and were passing the store that has 'No. 4' painted on the window. There was a crowd of toughs standing between that and the corner store, and one of them, a big, strapping fellow, who seemed to be a little drunk, rushed forward, grabbed Cowes by the coat lapels, and shook him. He mimicked the Hebrew accent and said: 'You want to buy a suit?'

"Cowes pushed him off and said: 'Let me alone.' Without saying a word he struck Cowes a terrible blow in the neck, under the left ear, with his fist. Before Cowes could fall he struck him again and again.

"Cowes staggered and tried to raise his arm, but could not do so. He mumbled something that I did not catch, and then fell into my arms.

"A crowd had gathered, but the man who struck him had disappeared. They brought me a glass of ice water, and I poured some on Cowes' face. It had no effect. He did not open his eyes once, or say a single word. I think it was half an hour before the ambulance came, but a few minutes before I heard the bell Cowes died."

The body was taken to the Elizabeth street station, and Walsh, Samuel Williams, the proprietor of the store at "No. 4," and two of his "pullers-in," Joseph Harris and Isaac Comminsky, were held by the police as witnesses.

FATHER MOLLINGER'S MONEY.

A Cousin of the Dead Priest Brings Suit in the Allegheny Court.

Pittsburg, Sept. 5.—The first step in the battle for the fortune left by Father Mollinger has begun before Register Conner on the application made by Wise and Miner, counsel for John Deveries Hoffman, a cousin of the deceased, for the revocation of the letters of administration granted to George Meyers, of Allegheny City.

Father Mollinger was the famous priest-physician who died several months ago. Hoffman, his cousin, is a paper-hanger, living in New York. Ex-Judge Langbeen, of New York, opened for the plaintiff and conducts the suit for Wise and Miner.

Father Mollinger did not leave any will, and the New Yorker is trying to prevent the money from being turned over to the church.

SIGNS OF A BIG COAL WAR.

The Reading Decides to Take the Offensive With the Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Sept. 5.—It was reported late this afternoon that the Reading company had determined to issue a circular refusing to make joint rates with the Pennsylvania company for carrying coal. This is construed as a declaration of open war and is said to be the outcome of the Pennsylvania's recent refusal to advance coal tolls to the west. President McLeod was not at his office this afternoon and nothing could there be learned upon the subject, but the story has received ample confirmation. High officials of the Pennsylvania disclaim all knowledge of the Reading's contemplated action. When the circular is issued, which, it is understood, will be very shortly, the Pennsylvania will be forced to retaliate in its turn and the consequences might prove grave. With regard to the refusal to advance the tolls on coal as agreed upon by the coal combination the Pennsylvania officials take the ground that the tolls are already sufficiently high and that no good reason can be urged for raising them. The Pennsylvania road is not in sympathy with the recent advance in the cost of coal to the consumer.

The intended action of the Reading was not definitely known in financial circles until after the close of the market, although rumors of some such developments were current all day. Reading stock was on the market in large quantities and the selling is said to have been mainly for the people who had prior information as to the approaching conflict. The stock sold as high as 28 1-8 this morning, but late in the day it had declined to 26 15-16, closing at about 27. Pennsylvania stock was not affected by the news, remaining steady at 54 1-2. If the issue proves to be open war between the two companies, as now seems highly probable, it would be impossible to foretell the result. The coal trade will be the center of the fight, but it may extend to other classes of traffic interchangeable between the two companies. The greatest excitement prevailed in financial circles this afternoon in consequence. The Pennsylvania officials decline to make any statement until they have seen the circular.

A TOWN BURNED.

Terrible Disaster at Rocky Bar, Idaho.

One Hundred and Fifty Families Rendered Homeless by the Flames.

Boise City, Idaho, Sept. 5.—The first authentic news of the fire at Rocky Bar Thursday reached this city yesterday.

The entire town was swept away and nearly 150 people rendered homeless.

Many towns in the southern part of the state are contributing to a common relief purse, and considerable money, blankets and clothing are now on the way to the sufferers.

TUGS MUST NOT SMOKE.

Judge Gresham Rules Against the Boats.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—The tugs must smoke no longer. Judge Gresham has so decided, and his opinion given has no string tied to it. The court overruled the tugmen on all points and refused to enjoin the city from prosecuting tug owners for violating the smoke ordinance. The police power, he said, was ample to compel obedience to the regulations passed by the city and there was no interference with navigation or commerce. Attorney Matz, representing the Smoke Prevention society, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Chetlain, who won the victory for the city, say they will now prosecute with vigor all violations of the ordinance. It is not likely, however, that there will be many such cases, inasmuch as the tugmen were very meek after their defeat.

PICKING UP THE DEAD.

Mate Egglesby Found by the Nimick.

He Was Lashed to a Ladder and Undoubtedly Died From Exhaustion.

Marie, Mich., Sept. 5.—The tug Andrew J. Smith arrived here from Deer Park yesterday having on board Philip Minch and C. F. Palmer, with the bodies of Mr. Minch, Mrs. Egglesby, and one fireman.

Contrary to the report received here from the City of Green Bay no other bodies have been found. The body of first mate Egglesby, which the Nimick picked up on the lake, was found lashed to a ladder with a life preserver on. He apparently died from exhaustion and not from drowning.

IN LOUISIANA

The Republicans are Talking of Carrying the State.

New Orleans, Sept. 5.—The state central committee of the Kellogg faction of the republican party in this state is to-day considering a proposition looking to the fusion of the two elements, and it is probable that an agreement will be arrived at by which the difficulty will be submitted to the national committee.

The question has already been more than once informally discussed by the latter body, and the national committeemen have come to the conclusion that there is no possible chance of carrying the state unless the two factions can be brought together.

Both the Warmoth and Kellogg parties have a state committee and a complete party machine, and sent contesting delegations to Minneapolis.

LIZZIE BORDEN.

Believed That the Girl is Insane.

An Expert Who Has Watched Her Actions Thinks Her Mind is Unbalanced.

Boston, Sept. 5.—A Fall River special to the Globe says that one of the prosecution's officers in the Borden case stated to a correspondent, on condition that his name should be withheld from publication, that he had frequently talked with Lizzie A. Borden and had watched her closely, and had noticed that her eyes were very unnatural, and the way she used them is identical with a person mentally deranged.

The speaker said he had seen many of the inmates of the Maunton and Worcester asylums and considered himself well qualified to judge of a case of mental irregularity.

As firm as he believed she committed the murder just so firmly does he think it the work of one insane.

After she had been locked up for a few weeks he shall look for a mental collapse and more definite signs of her trouble. Should his prediction come true, on the examination of two doctors, an order could be given for her removal to an insane asylum, and that would end the prosecution of the Borden murder case.

Five officers and two special detectives are now at work on the Borden case sifting and verifying old evidence and running down clews and theories submitted by the prisoner's friends.

ONE HUNDRED YACHTS.

New York, Sept. 5.—The fourth annual regatta of the New York Yacht Racing association to be held this afternoon will be participated in by over one hundred yachts flying the flag of the club. During the five years that the organization has been in existence it has enrolled over five thousand members and 1,500 yachts.

THE FIRST OF THE FIGHTS

McAuliffe and Myers Ready for the Word.

New Orleans Filled to Overflowing With Sports.

Money Goes Up in Large Sums and in All Kinds of Odds and Shapes.

New Orleans, April 5.—To-day will witness the opening of the greatest pugilistic carnival the world has ever seen. During the next three days six men, each great in his class, will contest for the welter weight, the feather weight and the heavy weight championships of two continents. The contest will take place under the auspices of the Olympic club, which is the wealthiest and most enterprising organization of its kind in America, and has done more than any other to reserve prize fighting from the disrepute into which it had been brought a few years ago by the thug element which at that time exercised undisputed sway.

The arena of the club has been greatly improved and enlarged, and will now seat over 10,000 people. Light will be provided by 50 large arc lamps, and an automatic gong will time the fighters in each round and in the rests between the rounds, and when a man is knocked down will strike 10 seconds so as be heard in all parts of the house.

There are probably more sporting men in New Orleans to-day than ever got together at one time before. They have been pouring in on every train since Saturday morning and have taken possession of every hotel and boarding house in the city, and notwithstanding the high price that has been put upon the seats it is now certain that thousands will be disappointed each night and will have to be content with putting up their money and waiting on the outside.

The Western Union company has strung nine wires to the club house, four of which will be operated direct from the ride. The sports are putting up their money liberally to-day at the same odds that have prevailed for the past week. Dixon and Sullivan are the favorites in the feather and heavy weight contests, while most of the betting on the Myer-McAuliffe fight is at even money, although the former seems to be a little stronger of the two and will probably strengthen the tide which is setting his way when he appears in the ring to-night.

The Streator Cyclone and his opponent McAuliffe, will weigh in at a little under 135 pounds. Their meeting to-night is practically an adjournment of their battle at North Judson, Indiana, three years ago, when upward of sixty rounds were fought and neither man could claim a victory.

Notwithstanding that this contest resulted in a draw, McAuliffe retained a strong following who considered him the champion of his class, but since that time he has acquired an unenviable reputation as a ring sprinter, and Myer is now by far the more popular man with the sporting fraternity. The discrimination of the club against the colored branch of the sporting fraternity has given rise to much complaint, especially in view of the fact that Dixon, the feather weight champion who will go through the formality of knocking out Jack Skelly tomorrow night, is himself a colored boy.

The club will admit negroes to the Myer-McAuliffe and Dixon-Skelly fights, but they will be admitted at a separate entrance and kept in a gallery by themselves where they will be in no danger of contaminating their brother sports who have the good fortune to be clothed in a white skin.

At the Sullivan-Corbett fight, however, the line will be drawn still more strictly, and the only representative of the colored race who will be allowed to witness the contest of the giants is Peter K. Jackson, who will be granted admission, if he arrives from England in time, by virtue of his prestige as a member of the profession.

ENGLISH EXPENSES.

London, Sept. 5.—A return of the national income and expenditure which is issued annually, has just been published. It gives details of income and expenditure from the years 1875-76 to 1891-92. The income of the nation for the first year in the period was over sixty-seven million pounds, and the expenditures a little less than a million pounds below that amount, whereas in 1892 the income was over seventy-nine million pounds, and the expenditures a little over a million less.

The amount expended o the British navy for the year just passed exceeds a hundred and fifty million dollars, or almost twice as much as was expended upon the civil service in the same period.

FROM HONDURAS.

New Orleans, Sept. 5.—The steamship Soteri, which arrived yesterday from Celba, reports that General Nu'lla, leader of the Honduras revolution, together with eight men, were captured August 26, near Ironia, and that he would be courtmartialed and shot.

This winds up the revolution. The reported seizure of the steamer S. Pzatti proves erroneous. She is now loading a cargo for this port.

THE TELEGRAPHERS.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 5.—The telegraphers convention seems to have fizzled out. Yesterday there were only 27 delegates at the meeting. They decided to call the new organization the United Telegraphers of North America, and elect G. W. Baird, of Topeka, chief officer. The convention will not conclude its labor until to-day.

MOONSHINER KILLED.

Huntsville, Ala., Sept. 5.—Newton Copeland, moonshiner and murderer, was shot and killed Saturday afternoon near Newmarket by a posse under Sheriff Powell, while attempting to escape after capture. He lived at Flintville, Tenn., and had recently been terrorizing Newmarket people.

BANKS IN TROUBLE.

New York, Sept. 5.—A cable to the Herald from Martinique says several banks there have suspended. Exchange is quoted at 10 premium and little is obtainable at that figure.

A farmer drove into Edgefield, S. C., and tried to sell cabbage at two heads for 5 cents to the colored people, but in vain, for he was met on all sides with the cry: "Boss, we ain't got no meat to bile down wid de cabbage." After receiving that excuse a dozen times the farmer stopped at a grocer's, bought a small quantity of bacon, cut it into slices, put a slice on each cabbage head, and offered a head with a slice of bacon for 5 cents. Then he sold all his cabbage and drove out of town amid the blessings of the community.

August Strindberg, the Danish poet, is famous for his hatred of women. This aversion seems to be uncontrollable at times, and often leads the author into difficulty. Not long ago he happened to meet a lady at the house of a friend, and taking hold of her, threw her from the veranda. The poor woman, who was injured, brought suit against the ungallant writer. He was condemned to pay the plaintiff 115 gulden, with 200 gulden as costs of the proceedings. The case has caused much talk in Germany.

GILBERT ISLAND.

High Handed Proceedure of An Englishman.

The King's Flag Torn Down Before His Eyes,

The British Flag Goes Up In Its Place and the Ruler is Ordered to Pay His Debts.

San Francisco, Sept. 5.—Further particulars of the seizure of the Gilbert islands, a valuable group in the South Sea, indicate that it was a most high-handed and outrageous procedure on the part of Commander Davis, of H. M. S. Royalist. On Sunday, June 12, the Royalist put into the lagoon that forms the harbor of Butaritari, the principal island of the group. A boat landed Captain Davis and several lieutenants. They proceeded to the palace of King Nauterrate Tebureimoa, and at a public conference read this proclamation:

"Her Majesty Victoria, Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, having this day assumed a protectorate over the Gilbert Islands, would remind all residents in the group other than natives that it is contrary to law to supply fire-arms, ammunition, explosive substances or intoxicating liquors to any natives of the Pacific Islands. This is hereby made known for general information.

"Given under my hand at Apemama this 27th day of May, 1892.

Ed. H. M. Davis.

Captain H. M. S. Royalist and deputy commissioner. At an assemblage in the afternoon, at which the American firms doing business in the group were represented. Captain Davis made a detailed explanation to the king as to what Great Britain would require of him. Among other things, he ordered the king to forthwith pay his debt of $40,000 to the white traders or get out of the place.

Then came the miserable pretext upon which England had seized the island. Captain Davis related how a British subject named Hong Sim, a Chinese storekeeper, had been robbed of tobacco and gin worth $85 on January 18, 1892, and that the king had neglected or refused to give him redress. This was only part of Great Britain's grievance. Captain Davis told how a white man was tried for the murder of a British subject, also a Chinese, and King Tebureimoa had allowed him to go to another island. After hauling the king over the coals generally, Captain Davis calmly said: "If you will now have your flag hauled down I will give you a very nice one to put up."

At 4:40 the king's flag was pulled down and instantly the British colors floated from the staff. The war-ships off shore noted the change and fired the usual salute that evening. The same performance was repeated on another part of the island. The few American residents were furious, but helpless. The next day the war-ship returned to Butaritari and reported the trial, conviction and execution of the murderer before mentioned. Captain Davis compelled the king to shoot the prisoner. The real cause of the shooting was King Tebureimoa's recent visit to the United States, when he vainly begged the American government to assume a protectorate. It is surmised that the Germans and British have joined forces to drive American traders out of the South Seas. Coming so close to the annexation of Johnston Island this act is, to say the least, significant.

TROUBLE FOR A VOODOO.

Medicine Man Thornton Arrested on a Serious Charge.

Many Rich White Patients—How the Colored "Doc" Drove a Good Trade Without a Degree or Learning.

Pittsburg, Sept. 5.—George Thornton, a grizzled negro "voodoo doctor," 65 years old, who says he is the seventh son of a seventh daughter, was arrested recently at his room in a house on Mulberry alley on a serious charge, and is detained at present to answer for disorderly conduct. He has been unable to raise sufficient bail to get out.

Thornton is a widower, and for the past five months, during which time he has been in the neighborhood of Twenty-ninth street, the gossips of the neighborhood have talked a great deal about him. He will have a hearing to-day, and a little white girl is expected to appear against him.

"Doc" Thornton, as he is called, rented a room in the tenement in Mulberry alley, below Twenty-ninth street, from Jesse Richardson, a hard-working colored man, who has three rooms in the house for his family, which consists of his wife and child. The "doctor" came here on March 4 last to attend Henry Richardson, a brother of Jesse's, who happened to be sick. Thornton was formerly on the South Side, and he is generally known among Pittsburg colored people as a powerful medicine man. He decided that Richardson's house would be a good place for an office, agreed to pay $5 a month for the room, and moved his furniture there.

According to the story of the Richardsons, their tenant had many patients from all parts of the city. The majority of them were colored people, but there were a number of well-dressed and apparently well-to-do white folks, who came and were closeted with the "voodoo" doctor. The latter was unable to read or write, and therefore made out no prescriptions. When he wanted a certain kind of medicine he went to the drug store with the patient to get it. Generally, however, he gave his customer a pint bottle filled with liquids of various hues, with which he gave the verbal directions.

Mrs. Eliza Richardson, relates her story as follows: "I wuz a'workin' down in de yahd 'bout noon-time with Mis' Polly Terry, who libs nex' doah. Mis' Terry, she staats to go in de house. At de top of de steps she stops to peep in undah Doc Thornton's doah. De minit she look she yells: 'Liza, foh de Lawd's sake, cum up heah! Cum quick!' I run up dem steps mighty quick, for Mis' Terry she look sciaht—foh a fac, she d'd. She push me an' say: 'Look dere,' an' I look, an' what I see? I looked again. Den I went right 'roun and knocked at Doc Thornton's doah an' sez, 'What's dis goin on heah?' He open de doah and dere was a li'l boy, de gal's brudder. He says: 'Miss, I didn do nuffin. It wuz de Doc.' I tole de chillun to git out an' tole him, I would hab him 'rested. He says he would hurt me if I d'd. But he won't. Ef he does I'll brek his face wid dat li'l safe on de mantel."

In her story Mrs. Richardson said that Thornton always professed to like children, and that all the little boys and girls in the neighborhood were given candy by him daily. The little girl in question, Mrs. Richardson said, had been coming to his room for several days, accompanied sometimes by a small brother and at other times by a larger boy. On Saturday she was accompanied by the elder brother. Both were nicely dressed. The police expect to locate the girl. It is said that similar cases may be brought against the old negro. The latter's wife died 16 years ago. He has a married daughter.

GENERAL MENTION.

You can never get women to vote intelligently. They are too much afraid of doing something that some other woman is going to do.

A man takes pride in saying he has a mind of his own, and yet when he is angry he takes pleasure in giving somebody a piece of it.

When Stiggins died from cholera, brought on by eating rhubard pie, the physicians solemnly decided that he died of too much pie-eat-ee.

When a man builds a house, although he may be very careful about the whole of it, he takes more panes with the windows than with the rest.—Texas Siftings.

G. A. R.

The Grand Army will commence moving on to Washington about Sept. 13. G. J. Clark, special agent of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, informed a Bee representative that he has contracted with 72 posts in Ohio and Michigan. The first train leaving on the 13th, two on the 15th will pass through this city from Michigan, and on the 17th the remainder of the Michigan posts will pass through, leaving here at 11 a. m., arriving at Washington the next day at 2 p. m. He has already disposed of 22 sleepers, and from the demands made for sleeping car accommodations, he advises those who have not secured berths to apply at once. The route is via C., H. & D. to Cincinnati, thence over the Chesapeake & Ohio, passing through the battlefields of Virginia to Washington, and then down the Potomac by steamer to Old Point Comfort, Fortress Monroe, Norfolk, then to the largest navy yards in the country at Portsmouth, to Hampton Roads, where they will witness the great naval exhibit, and then "On to Richmond." From there to Lynchburg, to Natural Bridge and back to Cincinnati, thence to the Soldiers' Home at Dayton, giving members of the G. A. R. and their friends a most delightful trip, over the scenes of the war.

WILL CELEBRATE

The Discovery of America by Columbus.

Interesting Document by Bishop Horstman on the Subject—The Greatest Event of Our History.

The following self-explanatory announcement by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Horstman will be read with interest:

Venerable Brethren of the Clergy; Dearly Beloved Children of the Laity:

We are about to celebrate as a nation, the 400th anniversary of the greatest event in our history, the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus on October 12th, 1492. It is right and proper that the commemoration of the event should be made as public, as universal and as magnificent as the manifold benefits it has bestowed upon the human race, deserve. We are sure that all of our faithful flock will, as Americans, enter heart and soul, and co-operate in every way, to make the civic display as imposing as possible. But it is especially as Catholics that our Holy Father, Leo XIII, calls on us to make the day one of special prise and thanksgiving to Almighty God, for His infinite mercy in leading on Columbus to the successful accomplishments of his almost superhuman undertaking. The discovery of America was the inspiration of faith; religion was its principal motive. The salvation of the countless souls, who were living in darkness and in the midst of the shadow of death in these far off and unknown lands, was the main object of the heroic navigator. It was this thought that sustained him all through the many years of study, and of weary and disheartening journeys to the various courts of Europe, seeking for patrons to help him in carrying out of heaven-born inspiration. It was religion, the love for souls redeemed by the precious blood of Jesus Christ that gained for him the ardent and effective sympathy of the Franciscan Friar who introduced him to the glorious Queen Isabella of Castile. It was the eloquent pleading of this Friar with the queen that finally determined her to fit out, at her own expense, the expedition, which resulted so favorably. It is, therefore, with good reason that the Church of God should celebrate with all solemnity the great event, and give praise and thanksgiving to the Most High for this signal blessing. That all of our faithful people, as far as possible, may join in this sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving we direct that on Sunday, Oct. 16, a mass of thanksgiving, in honor of the most blessed trinity, be offered up in their churches by the pastors, with a sermon appropriate to the occasion, concluding with the Te Deum. In our own cathedral there will be a solemn pontifical mass. We suggest, also, that on Oct. 12, the church bells be rung for some time. But that our praise and thanksgiving may be more acceptable to God, we exhort all our people to make Sunday, Oct. 16, a day of general communion, that thus with pure hearts our prayers may be the more pleasing and acceptable in the sight of God. We expect this general communion especially from the members of the various Sodalities and Confraternities. The devout female sex in particular should look on the celebration as their own; for, no one had more to do with the success of the expedition than the Catholic Queen Isabella.

On the evening of Oct. 12 there will be a grand mass meeting of the Catholics of Cleveland in Music hall, where fitting addresses will be given by prominent speakers.

We hope that all, clergy and people, will work earnestly to make the celebration, both civic and religious, an event which will be pleasing in the sight of God and man.

Hebrew is rapidly becoming the living language of Palestine again. The Jews, who are gathered there from various lands, speak so many tongues that necessity calls for a common one. What could be more natural than their choice of the Hebrew?

The artist Whistler, who was once an American, recently asked an American who was visiting him in London who was president of the United States—"or do you have presidents now?" he added, as child-like and bland as Bret Harte's "Heathen Chinee."

At Opelika, Ala., a large carrier pigeon, killed the other day by Henry B. Thompson, had a small gold band clasped around its left leg with the number 130 engraved on it. This was the only message it bore.

A SONG OF HOPE.

Far down the winding Lane of Years
The weary world is slowly wending.
Grim Walls of Fate and Gates of Tears
To trembling prayers no answer sending;
Yet through it all, sweet spirits call,
Through lonely days of grief and aching—
"Hope's roses blossom on the wall,
To keep the world's great heart from breaking!"

Across the sobbing Sea of Doom
The weary world is slowly drifting.
Eyes wet with tears peer through the gloom,
Yet see no sign of rest or rifting.
Still angels bright, from some far height,
Repeat through hours of weary waking—
"Hope's starlight shines through darkest night,
To keep the world's great heart from breaking!"

O'er troubled ways, by paths of rue,
Faint souls press toward the Land of Pardon,
Burdened with crosses wet with dew,
From chill Gethsemane's lone garden;
Yet to and fro, now loud, now low,
A voice is sweetest music making—
Hope, singing on through pain and woe,
To keep the world's great heart from breaking!

GREAT TIME IN CHICAGO

Labor Day Celebrated in Good Style.

Five Thousand Bricklayers in Line.

Politicians Also Turn Out and Address the Hard Handed Sons of Toil.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—The opening event of the Labor day celebration was a street parade which took place this morning. It was made up of nearly one hundred thousand workingmen, over forty thousand of them being in uniform.

It was the largest turn-out Chicago has ever seen, and it was witnessed by a crowd that extended from one end of the line of march to the other.

An early start was made in order to get through in time for this afternoon's celebrations at Ogden's grove and Sharpshooters' park.

The prizes for the best appearing organizations in line were awarded by a board consisting of Capt. T. J. Ford, of the Chicago Zouaves; James W. Scott, of the Herald; Victor F. Lawson, of the News Record; Revs. A. H. Henry, B. S. Bemis and John Beegan.

The entire procession was divided into 12 parts, each under the command of a mounted marshal. Every trade in the parade had an organization marshal, making 116 in all, 90 of them mounted. The Bricklayers' union led the procession. This organization alone turned out over 5,000 men.

The following is a partial list of the organizations which took part in the parade: Bricklayers, horseshoers, Chicago Typographical union, gas fitters, cigarmakers, brickmakers, carpenters and painters.

The following composing what is known as the "Iron Brigade," occupied a conspicuous place in the line: Iron molders, architectural iron workers and machinery molders. The following unions turned out in full force: Clothing clerks, Seamen's union, longshoremen, waiters and bartenders, plasterers, sheet and metal workers, cornicemakers, stonecutters, boilermakers and lathers.

The meetings this afternoon and evening at Sharpshooters' park will be addressed by Senator John M. Palmer, C. S. Darrow, and Miles Kehoe; at Ogden's Grove, Congressman Durburow, Congressman McGann, and ex-Congressman William E. Mason will speak.

The New Unitarian Church.

As there is some anxiety in regard to the proposed cost of the Unitarian church which is soon to be built in this city, all those who are interested are informed that the contemplated cost is not to exceed $8,000. The lot costing in addition $5,000; total cost $13,000. To provide for this there is a subscription list amounting to nearly $9,000. It is expected that another thousand can be raised before the church is completed. This will leave a debt to be funded of $3,000 for another decade to provide for. The dimensions of the church are an audience room 40 by 50 feet, seating capacity 350; Sunday school room 30 by 40 feet, and a parlor 30 by 30 feet. All these rooms connecting by folding doors. The dining-room and kitchen are to be over the Sunday school and parlor. The plan is original. The building itself is unique and will command attention on the beautiful site on Ashland avenue. The building committee, who are authorized to carry out these plans, are A. J. Rummel, D. W. Camp and Mrs. Judge Harmon.

A Wonderful Woman.

Alexander Campbell, well known in Ohio as the founder of the religious body known as Campbellites, or adherents of the so-called Christian church, has left a remarkable granddaughter in the person of Miss Cynthia M. Westover, whose recent invention of an improved cart for carrying earth out of mines and tunnels, saving thereby a large amount of animal labor, is attracting much attention in the world's mining and inventive circles. The French Society of Inventors made her an honorary member and awarded her a gold medal and a first class diploma, under the supposition that she was a man, as she writes her name C. M. Westover. Her mother dying when she was three years old, she has been the constant companion of her father, a geologist and mine owner. She is a woman of rare genius and culture, a graduate of the Colorado State university, a linguist, geologist and botanist. Has been leading soprano of a church choir at Towanda, Pa., assistant custom house inspector at New York, and secretary to Gen. Beattie, superintendent of the street cleaning department of that city, and now she is said to have entered the field of literature and to be writing a novel based on Rocky mountain incidents of travel.

FOR THE OTHER SIDE.

For some days the friends of protection and reciprocity have been enjoying a new and very delicious cake called Grandfather's Hat, and now the other side is to have a show. A Tariff Reform Cake has made its appearance. It is the product of the progressive spirit and inventive genius of Worts-Kirk-Bigelow, who also originated its predecessor, Grandfather's Hat.

Tariff Reform is a handsome cake, and it is as good as it is handsome. It will be one of the popular features of the campaign, and no doubt will, in a few days, be in all the leading grocery stores.

HENRY COUNTY DEMS.

Rousing Convention Held at Napoleon.

Good Men Placed in Nomination.

The Boys Turn Out in Force and Made Things Lively for a Day.

Napoleon, O., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Henry county's democratic convention converted Saturday into as large a day, so to speak, as any of our great holidays.

Long before 7 o'clock in the morning, from every point of the compass, teams filled to fullness thereof were seen wending their way down the many beautiful pikes into Henry's little capital.

Nor were the vehicles in question filled by democrats alone, and it did seem as though every voter in Henry county, regardless of politics, was in Napoleon to attend the great convention.

The convention was of a delegate nature, and for harmonious termination it has never had an equal in the county. Neither must it be thought that that one essential to political success, enthusiasm, was in any way wanting, for after ballots, nominations, etc., in fact, the climax of every step the convention took, was followed with cheers that fairly made our elegant court house tremble on its foundation.

At 10:30, Philip C. Schwab, in behalf of the chairman of the central committee, who was absent, announced the temporary organization of the convention as consisting of Judge M. Donnelly, chairman, and George C. Dittenhauer secretary.

Judge Donnelly called the convention to order, and in his pleasing and characteristic way talked to the convention a few minutes only, realizing, as he said, that time and eagerness on the part of the delegates to enter the fray would not permit a lengthy speech. The judge, however, in his several minutes' talk succeeded in giving the convention some good sound advice that, if followed, would end the convention with general good will. His advice was heeded and its wisdom readily manifested.

After Judge Donnelly's speech he at once proceeded to the business of the convention.

Each township reported members to serve on each of the following committees, viz: Permanent organization, rules and order of business, credentials, resolutions. Also a member to act as central committeeman from each of the several precincts.

The central committee, which is regarded in this county as a body of no little importance, consists of J. C. Waltmire, Cyrus Bish, W. J. Connolly, Louis Bokleman, H. Kestner, Asa Bixby, J. N. Palmerton, E. J. Leist, G. F. Hayes, J. R. Collins, J. Mohler, M. Donnelly, L. L. Orwig, E. T. Barnes, P. C. Schwab, W. Ritz, J. W. Swisher, Chas. Schroeder and John McGarvey.

After the several committees were made up the convention recessed until 1:30 p. m.

Afternoon Session.

Promptly at 1:30 the convention was filled to overflowing and called to order by the chairman.

He called the credential committee, which reported no contests.

The committee on permanent organization, etc., reported Hon. J. F. Meyers chairman, and W. Decker secretary. It also suggested that the convention should be governed by the rules of the Ohio house of representatives, and that a majority of all votes cast should be required to nominate. The report was adopted.

The permanent organization took possession with a neat little speech from Mr. Meyers, in which he predicted the success of the democratic ticket in nation and county, if not the state.

He closed by calling for the committee on resolutions. The report was somewhat lengthy, pledging a new democratic faith and the doctrine of tariff reform as expounded by Grover Cleveland. It denounced the force bill, McKinley bill and billion dollar congress, and endorsed the national and state platforms. The report was adopted.

The convention then proceeded to the nomination of the candidates.

Recorder Hanna and Sheriff Decker being candidates for second terms, were renominated by acclamation.

For commissioner the names of Jacob Moss, Marion township; John W. Long, Flatrock township, and D. T. Burr, Monroe township, were announced. Six closely contested ballots were taken before a choice was effected, Moss withdrawing at the close of the fifth. D. T. Burr was nominated.

The ballots are:

First Ballot.

Long	84 2-3
Moss	104 2-3
Burr	96 2-3

Second Ballot.

Long	108 3-10
Moss	90 2-10
Burr	88 1-2

Third Ballot.

Long	113 7-10
Moss	79
Burr	94 2-3

Fourth Ballot.

Long	118 3-4
Moss	75 3-10
Burr	93 1-10

Fifth Ballot.

Long	122 1-2
Moss	65
Burr	99 3-10

Sixth Ballot.

Long	125 1-10
Burr	168 9-10

For surveyor the names of Henry Kolbe and W. O. Hudson were announced. The latter had an easy walk-away, the ballot resulting, Kolbe, 63 2-5; Hudson, 223 2-5.

The infirmary director contest was equally expeditious in a settlement, J. P. Dunbar receiving 103, while H. E. Stuckman received 173.

Dr. James S. Daly was nominated for coroner by acclamation, thus completing the day's work.

The ticket is probably the strongest ever nominated by the democrats, what little disaffections it had produced even now being healed over, and to remain so.

Liberati's Band Bucks the Merry-go-Round

And a Fine Concert is Spoiled—Ship Ahoy This Evening—Sadie Hasson at the People's—The Wonderland.

Liberati, the famous cornetist, and his great band gave two concerts at Presque Isle Saturday that were artistic successes only marred by competition with the hand organ on the merry-go-round, that the management did not deem necessary to stop. When Liberati played piano the hand organ played forty and in another key. It was most excruciating. It was the same way when the band was playing the light passages in the overture from William Tell, or when the quartet was singing. Another drawback to the enjoyment of the concert was the fact that no programs were distributed.

A Week of Opera.

The tuneful melody of Ship Ahoy, Donnelly & Miller's nautical comic opera, will be heard for the first time in this city this evening at Wheeler's. The opera scored instantaneous triumph on its initial production in the east. In Boson it enjoyed the longest run of any American opera ever produced. Its pleasantly satirical discussion of the customs and etiquette of our nature, form a fundamental theme for the opera which is of interest to every patriotic American, coming, as it does, directly in the wake of the recent attempt to improve our naval force. Its witty dialogue and amusing situations make it a perfect cyclone of hilarity which can not fail to amuse all who witness it. Ship Ahoy has been pronounced the ideal opera in Boston and New York, and all this week Toledo theater goers will have an opportunity of judging for themselves the opera which is claimed to be Pinafore's successor.

At the People's.

Sadie Hasson, the popular charicter soubrette, supported by the Dowling-Hasson combination, will present her new piece, A Kentucky Girl, at the People's all this week, commencing with Labor day matinee this afternoon. Miss Hasson is well known to Toledoans as a bright, vivacious actress. A Kentucky Girl is said to be peculiarly fitted to her style.

Wonderland Change of Bill.

There will be numerous new attractions at the Wonderland this week. The star will be Marquis, the handsome horse that carries a mane thick and heavy, 14 feet in Length. Lewis and Paul will also be attractions in the curio hall. They are called detective defiers because they can unlock any pair of handcuffs that are placed on their wrists in 60 seconds. The Italian Gypsy band will remain another week. Lottie and Charles Fremont, Miss Jessie Giles, vocalist; the Johnson trio, lightning change artists and Kamosha, the lady magician, who comes from the Crystal palace, London. The doors will be opened at 10 a. m. daily and performances at the theater will take place at 2:30 p. m., 4:30 p. m., 8 p. m. and 9:30 p. m.

HOME FOR GRAND OPERA.

New York, Sept. 5.—The stockholders of the Music Hall company will take action upon the return from Europe of their president, Mr. Reno, to replace the loss of the Metropolitan Opera house by converting the Carnegie Music hall into a home for grand opera. Another lot was purchased some months ago and when built upon would give ample space for opera. The Music hall people say that they can change it into an opera house in 90 days.

PLAYED IN HARD LUCK.

Huntington, Ind., Sept. 5.—The residence of Thad Butler, editor of the Daily Herald, was entered through a window by burglars, and Mr. Butler's best suit of clothes including boots and socks, taken. The editor went to work in the morning in his son's bicycle suit.

LABOR'S DAY.

Dual Demonstration and Picnic.

The Central Labor Union and Building and Trades' Council in Line—Afternoon's Proceedings.

The streets were thonged at an early hour this morning to witness the big parades, and promptly at 10 o'clock the Building Trades Council with the German carpenters, lathers, plasterers, tinners, iron and cornice workers, hodcarriers and tailors and six bands marched up Summit street. The painters carried a beautiful floral ladder, and pallette and brushes. The plasterers, in white trousers, black coats and soft hats made a very fine appearance.

Scarcely had this parade passed before the mammoth parade of the Central Labor union appeared, headed by a squad of 13 police, followed by Battery D and the Trinity cadets and Toledo Cadets. Then came the grand marshal and aides, and the unions in the order outlined in Saturday's Bee.

The cigar-makers carried some amusing floats, the tailors were resplendent in silk hats and Prince Albert coats, the carpenters had the largest number of men in line, and every union presented so fine an appearance that the committee from the press appointed to review the parade, and decide which was the best looking union, are still balloting.

The decision will probably be announced at Metropolitan park this evening and in the papers to-morrow.

The picnics at Metropolitan and Collingwood avenue parks are in full swing this afternoon.

TO LUCAS COUNTY DEMOCRATS.

At a meeting of the Lucas County Democratic Central Committee, held on Saturday, it was decided that all democrats of the county present at the circuit court judicial convention to be held at the court house on Tuesday, Sept. 6, shall cast the vote to which Lucas county is entitled. O. A. BROWNING,
Chairman.

C. W. MURPHY, Secretary.

The harmony of the republican party in Toledo is oppressively overpowering.

Here's a go—in the camp of his friends Squire's advocacy of Griffin's cause is said to be hurtful. W. I. ought to kick.

There is much sense and reason in Gov. Ashley's claim to the republican congressional nomination. The sacrificial lamb of 1890 ought to be recognized in 1892.

It is a matter of general regret that Senator Roger Q. Mills is compelled to withdraw from campaign work on account of ill health. He is a vigorous champion of the people's cause and his services can not well be spared.

At the democratic convention in Delaware county on Saturday speeches were made by Congressman Harter and Candidate W. A. Taylor. The campaign commences with a hurrah in old Delaware and with promise of success at the polls.

By instruction of the democratic county central committee, all democrats of Lucas county in attendance at the circuit judicial convention to-morrow are empowered to cast the vote of the county. As Judge Scribner is the only candidate the nomination will be a formal matter and every democrat will be glad to champion his cause. He is one of the very best judges in this or any other state.

In an emergency like the present the people care very little whether the general government or the state controls quarantine regulations. The best work in preventing the introduction and spread of cholera in the United States is demanded, and the entire effort of local and general authority will likely be necessary. The scourge is on this side of the Atlantic now, and it is a condition, not a theory, that confronts us. Dr. Jenkins, of New York, may be a very superior health officer, but Uncle Samuel has a little reputation himself as a hustler.

Among the distinctive features of the Ohio building at the world's fair will be four large rooms set apart for the display of products of the leading four cities, Cincinnati, Toledo, Cleveland, and Columbus. It is expected these several cities will appropriately furnish the rooms. Already Columbus and Cincinnati are at work in this direction. Columbus being honored with the name of the discoverer of America will furnish its room in Fifteenth century style. Cincinnati being the largest city in the state purposes to provide the most elaborate furnishings. What shall Toledo do? One word should express it. Let it excel the other three cities. Now is the time for native enterprise to assert itself. Toledo to the front.

It is understood among Massachusetts democrats that Gov. Russell is again to lead the state ticket. His two terms as governor have been eminently successful and satisfactory and his popularity is now greater than ever. That he will again be elected is confidently expected. A pleasing episode of the coming nominating convention is the fact that Gov. Russell's father, Hon. Charles Theodore Russell, the eminent Boston jurist, will preside over the deliberations of the convention. It will be a proud hour when the father introduces the son as the standard bearer of the democratic party. The old Bay Staters are in good trim this year to give their electoral vote to the democratic candidate for president.

The seizure of the Gilbert Islands by the British government was attended with a display of brutish authority which calls for investigation by our own government. Upon the merest pretense a British man-of-war dethroned the native king and insulted foreign citizens, many of whom are American tradesmen. The islands are fifteen in number, and the total population native and foreign, is about 35,000. Although the Gilbert Islands are somewhat unproductive and largely composed of coral reefs, still this country must view with grave concern the aggressiveness of England in the Pacific. The trade which naturally belongs to the United States is diverted to other channels and British naval stations are established in every part of the vast Pacific to menace our western coast.

Gov. McKinley declines to debate the tariff question with Congressman Bynum, of Indiana. In the classic language of Prof. John L. Sullivan, Major McKinley seems to be a "bombastic sprinter." The circumstances attending this challenge and declination are all discreditable to McKinley. He had himself announced to speak upon the tariff question to the employes of the protected industries in Bynum's district. So thoroughly convinced of the utter fallacy and iniquity of the protective idea is Mr. Bynum that he did not hesitate to offer to go before his own people and confron the Prince of Protection upon McKinley's single topic of discussion. To decline the proposed debate shows weakness and cowerdice upon the part of the advocate of monopoly.

It is difficult at this distance to understand the New York campaign. We can only judge from newspaper reports, and they are provokingly contradictory. The attitude of Senator Hill is also too uncertain for solid comfort, though Lieutenant Governor Sheehan, a trusted friend, says the Senator will take the stump shortly and will deliver forty speeches in New York for Mr. Cleveland. The Peck treason is charged to Hill's account, more because of the remark of Peck that he is a Hill democrat than for any other reason. While these uncertainties are annoying democrats the republicans are more troubled. The effort to placate Platt offends the followers of Senator Hiscock, and Reid has not wholly reconciled organized labor. The situation is much as the two national conventions left it. Western democrats are at a loss to understand why there should be any doubt about carrying the democratic state of New York. There is no local election this year to be played against the national ticket, and big politics is the stake for big politicians to work. It would seem that Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Whitney ought to be able to command democratic success, especially when the loyalty of Tammany is conceded. If they do not, then it was a mistake to nominate Cleveland. This is the way western democrats view the situation. It would be criminal politics to lose New York now.

The determination of the democratic national committee to conduct the western campaign from Chicago disconcerts the republicans. They cannot fully understand the aggressive presumption of the movement which carries the war into Egypt. The hitherto republican states of Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas are to be made democratic fighting ground, and the men who best understand the local situation are to be in charge of the work in Chicago. Congressman B. F. Cable, of Chicago, will be in command of the western army. He is a thorough organizer and well fitted for the chairmanship. A sharp and aggressive campaign will make several western states uncomfortably doubtful for the republicans.

A nice story to plague several leading republicans comes from Holmes county, this state. In the little town of Nashville there has long lived a man named Andrew Johnson. In 1864 he received a letter from Washington, which upon opening he discovered should have been sent to Andrew Johnson, Nashville, Tenn. Being of a political nature the letter was copied by the Ohio Andrew Johnson, after which the original was forwarded to the rightful owner. The Ohio Andrew Johnson still lives and has made public the letter, which proves to have been written by Senator John Sherman and revealed the political scheme by which Whitelaw Reid and others were determined to defeat the nomination of Abraham Lincoln. The friends of the "martyred Lincoln" will want Mr. Reid to explain, and while the matter is newly fresh Senator Sherman might also indite an epistle to his loyal followers. The moral of this and thousands of similar political expressions is that it is seldom safe to write political letters. It was a shrewdly wise politician who said he would rather travel a hundred miles to talk five minutes on politics than to write one political letter.

GRIFFIN WINS.

Republican Primaries to Be Held Under the Baber Law.

The Postoffice Crowd Snowed Under and Are Given a Dose of Their Own Medicine.

The Griffin people are on top and the the Bonner-postoffice crowd have been driven into a corner.

The latter were completely vanquished in the battle waged in the republican county central committee meeting Saturday afternoon, and Griffin came out several lengths ahead.

It is claimed by the federal building clique that the board of elections have unnecessarily interfered with the duties of the republican central committee.

It would like that way, but whether it is a fact or not, the primary plan adopted by the postoffice is dead, and the board of elections will run the republican primaries.

Col. Brown claims that the Blade unintentionally, perhaps, failed to publish the call correctly, and it was that which caused the row. The call as issued by the Blade was not the one finally adopted, and the Commercial alone published the call correctly.

Harry King and Harry C. Ellis labored with the committee all Saturday afternoon to have the Baber law adopted and succeeded finally in so doing.

Col. Bonner took the floor and opposed the Baber law system. He said that undue influence had been brought to bear on the board of elections, and he for one was opposed to it.

Mr. F. H. Tanner also opposed it, and cross-examined Mr. King on the law. Why, he asked, did not the board of elections interfere with the democratic primaries?

Mr. King replied that owing to a technical point the board could not interfere.

An effort to hold the primaries on Wednesday instead of Thursday was voted down. The object of the motion was to make the issue of a new call null and void and Wednesday would not give the necessary term of notice—five days.

On a motion to withdraw the Bonner call Rike got in the wrong boat and on his vote the motion was lost.

The decision to hold a star chamber session was reconsidered when the committee met in the afternoon, but it might as well have been secret as those who would have liked to attend had received official notice that the session would be secret.

After a long discussion, participated in by Bonner, Rike, Tanner, Morrill, Kerr, Ryan, Ellis and others, it was decided to hold the primaries under the Baber law. The postoffice plan was voted down 11 to 7.

Messrs. Rike, Ryan and Merrill were appointed to confer with the board of election in connection with the outside delegates relative to the running of the primaries.

It is a Griffin victory all along the line. Messrs. King and Ellis practically control the election board and the supervisors and judge will be largely Griffin in such wards as Griffin has not secured solid already.

Ashley at Work.

Friends of Ashley claim that he will have over half of the delegation from Fulton county.

His friends are working hard locally and it will surprise Griffin and Hamilton, who imagine that Ashley's not in it, if the old man pulls a third of the Lucas county delegates.

He has a pull in the First, Sixth and Ninth wards, and is strong in the Eighth.

The postoffice were forced to swallow a bitter pill Saturday, but their opponents are not going to have it all their own way by any means. There is a day of reckoning coming and when it comes look out for fun.

The Baber law suits Hamilton all right, but unless he gets a hustle on himself he will not be in it with Griffin and Ashley.

ORDERED TO QUIT.

More Trouble Among Tennessee Miners.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 5.—A dispatch from Coal Creek received late last night says:

"Notices have just been posted at all the mines here, ordering all union miners to stop work. They are signed 'The Committee.'

"The second regiment has been ordered back here and will probably arrive on Tuesday. James G. DeGruchy, for whom scouting squads have been on the lookout for two weeks was captured at Harriman last evening. He said he was a sharpshooter and used government needle guns to fire into Fort Anderson. He thought he killed the cannoneer in the fort. As he is known to be a crack shot, this is probably true."

IT RAINED.

Pittsburg, Sept. 5.—The morning game of base ball which was to have been played between the Pittsburg and Washingtons has been postponed on account of rain.

WHO OWNS THE PROPERTY?

Interesting Case to be Tried in Probate Court.

Was Christopher Klipstein Married and What Constitutes a Marriage in Ohio Will Be Decided.

A most interesting contest will be submitted to Probate Judge Millard in probate court to-morrow, involving the right to the property of an estate. The nature of the fight is a decided departure from the beaten path of such proceedings. The important question of what constitutes a valid marriage in Ohio will be passed upon by the court. By the provisions of the old common law a marriage ceremony and license were not necessary but a mutual agreement and constant cohabitation was by the terms of that law a valid marriage. Upon this issue this case will be disposed of.

About a year ago Christopher Klipstein died. Everybody knew Chris, who, during his life, was a fixture at the Wheeler opera house.

Soon after his death the probate court appointed Harvey Scribner administrator. An inventory of the estate fixed its value at about $5,000. The administrator filed a report and disposed of the bulk of the estate to the widow, there being no children.

Not long after, the deceased's father, Christopher Klipstein, and brother George, entered a contest to the widow's right to the property, alleging that she did not occupy the relation of wife to the deceased, for the reason that they were never married, that no marriage ceremony ever took place, and that no marriage license for the union was ever issued.

Mrs. Klipstein entered a defense, by her attorney, Moses G. Booth, setting up that no marriage ceremony was performed or marriage license ever taken out, but that a marriage existed nevertheless.

She claims that they cohabited, and lived together as man and wife; that they announced themselves as such in public, which constitutes a valid marriage.

TOLEDO'S RETURN

From an Important Patriarchs Militant Meeting.

An Endeavor Will Be Made to Have Monies Now Used by the Sovereign Grand Lodge Remain in the Department.

Col. A. J. Eyster, Col. W. F. Van Loo, Col. D. C. Hight and Col. Lou Van Norden returned to-day from Dayton, where they were in attendance at the military council of the officers of the Patriarchs Militant, the uniformed branch of the Odd Fellows.

It is desired to make some decided and important changes in the departments. When the last encampment was held in Toledo the order was obliged to subscribe funds to defray the attending expenses. It is hoped to make such an assessment unnecessary in the future. With this end in view a resolution was adopted memoralizing the representatives to the sovereign grand lodge at Portland, Oregon, September 15, to divide the funds received for commissions between the several departments, 75 per cent. to go to the departments and 25 per cent. to the sovereign grand lodge.

If this is consummated each department will be enabled to hold yearly encampments without imposing an extra tax.

TRADES' CONFERENCE.

The Session in Glasgow Has Opened.

London, Sept. 5.—The trades union congress began its session at Glasgow to-day at noon. Under the rules drafted by the parliamentary committee of the congress, trades societies by whatever name known are to send one delegate for every 1,000 members or fraction thereof, provided that they have made the required payments toward the expenses of the parliamentary committee throughout the year. The mover of a resolution is limited to fifteen minutes and the succeeding speakers to five minutes each. The session will, it is understood, have for a distinguished feature a protracted discussion of the eight-hour discussion.

THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

Met and Set Time for Primaries and Convention.

Resolutions Passed Regarding the Coming Sixth Judicial Convention—A Short Business Like Meeting.

The democratic central committee of Lucas county met at the office of Byron F. Ritchie in the Law building Saturday afternoon. O. A. Browning was in the chair and Chas. W. Murphy acted as secretary.

It was decided to hold the primaries Thursday, September 15, and the convention Saturday, the 17th.

Messrs. Eppstein, Browning and Murphy were appointed a committee to formulate a call for the primaries and convention similar to that of last year.

The following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, Such a short time intervenes before the sixth judicial convention to be held September 6, at the court house, for the purpose of selecting a candidate for district judge;

Resolved, That the county central committee call on the democrats attending said convention to cast the vote of the democrats of Lucas county.

Messrs. Donahue and Bresch were appointed a committee on hall, after which the committee adjourned.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Sir James Home-Spiers, whose approaching marriage with the beautiful American, Miss Green, is announced, is 31. He was in the Black Watch but retired. He belongs to an old Scotch family.

Queen Victoria, it is said, still cherishes some of her childhood dolls. Albert Edward has often complained to his intimate friends about the trait in his mother's character which makes her so unwilling to give up anything.

Vereschagin, the celebrated Russian painter, has settled himself at Moscow, where he intends to reside permanently, and he is going to paint a series of huge pictures representing the principal events of the French invasion of 1812.

Senator Morrill is one of the youngest looking 80-year-old man in public life, and when he is at home in the marble-ribbed Green Mountains of Vermont he looks spry enough to drive a team to the corner grocery for fodder or to help the blacksmith when he is shoeing his oxen.

Whether it is due to the fascinations of his music or to the romance interest attaching to his relations with Madame Georg Sand, it is hard to say; but Chopin seems to be the hero of the Vienna musical exhibition. The instruments and other relics of this composer have proved so attractive that the room in which they are exposed is crowded all the time.

THE SUMMER WIDOWER'S LAMENT.

Come home to me, darling, come home to me now;
The dust on the mantle is deep;
To keep things all tidy I do not know how,
And I fear I've forgot how to sweep!

I can't find the bedclothes; my stockings are lost;
The rooms are all empty and drear,
And 'cept for the spiders and flies (quite a host),
I'd have no companions, I fear.

There are stains on the table and dirt on the floor
(I cannot see how it got there);
Things all seem askew and waiting for you
To "set them to rights" everywhere!

There are moths in the carpets and flies on the wall,
And bugs crawling 'round on the floor,
And I can't sleep o' nights, 'cause I dream of these sights,
So shorten your stay at "the shore."

MRS. WAYNE'S INVITATION.

"Maurice, why don't you give a party?"

"A party?" Maurice Montroy took his cigar out of his mouth, and looked at his cousin Helen. "I give a party?"

"Of course—why not? A strawberry party in your law office, with musicians and plenty of lemonade. I'm sure there's room enough. Here you have been receiving the hospitalities of the young ladies of the village all winter, and you really ought to think about doing something to reciprocate them."

"Well, it wouldn't be a bad idea, I think, myself."

"And let me write the list of the girls, will you, Maurice?"

"Write away, then."

"For Tuesday next week?"

"If you choose."

Maurice Montroy sat smoking out the remnant of his cigar in peaceful contemplation, as Helen Graham wrote out the names. When she had finished he reached out his hand.

"Let me look at the list."

Helen gave him the paper with a complacent smile.

Maurice ran his eye down the column. "Aren't you going to ask Mrs. Wayne?"

"What! Adela Wayne, who gives music lessons and takes in embroidery? What would Emily Millerton say? Maurice, you've no more idea of propriety than a child."

"She's got an uncommonly pretty face, and somehow she blushes so prettily when you speak to her."

"I dare say," said Helen, superciliously, "but that makes no difference in the etiquette of the thing. Shall I come to-morrow and help you about fixing up the room?"

"No," said Maurice, shortly. "I'll manage my own party."

And Helen Graham took her leave, almost inclined to be offended at her cousin's independent air of brevity.

And before nightfall the whole village was ringing with Mr Montroy's expected "party."

"Mamma," said little Ruth Wayne, who was threading daisies on a string at her mother's feet, "are you going to Mr. Montroy's party?"

Adele Wayne—beautiful, scarcely 24, with hair like spun gold, and blue, pensive eyes—never looked up from her complicated embroidery pattern as she answered:

"No, Ruth."

"Why not, mamma?"

"There is a little boy with a note; run and see what he wants."

Little Ruth obeyed. In a moment or two she came back.

"A letter for you, mamma."

And Adela, opening it read:

"Dear Adela—Or Mrs. Wayne, I suppose I should say, if the memories of our old school days were not too strong for ceremony—will you come to my party on Tuesday night? M. M."

Meanwhile Emily Millerton was tormenting her seamstress to finish the blue crepe dress that was to captivate the young lawyer straightway.

"Here's a kettle of fish!" groaned Mr. Montroy, standing despairingly in the middle of his office on the eventful Tuesday so anxiously anticipated by the village belles and beaux. "I don't find it so easy to give a party after all. Wine bottles smashed, bringing 'em up from the depot in old Jenkins' wagon; cake all jammed into a cocked hat. I don't see why it wasn't packed properly. I hope the ice cream will be all right, but—"

"Half-past three, and Aunt Becky not come!" he ejaculated aloud. "What can the reason be?"

"Wal!" said Jehoram, who was just preparing to depart, "I think it's extremely likely the reason is, 'cause she broke her wrist last night!"

"More evil luck!" thought Montroy, as he watched the old countryman drive away. "Well, there's one good thing; I've got a broom and a pail, and there's plenty of good spring water."

Maurice Montroy was not born a Yankee, but he had all the enterprise and resolution commonly supposed to belong to the inhabitants of the New England states. He covered his black curls with an antique hat bristling with rebellious straws, and brimless on one side; pinned an old sheet securely round him, and went to work, mounted on a pile of books placed upon a chair, and the chair elevated upon a table.

"Rather shaky," thought Maurice, dipping his brush into the whitewash pail and giving it a business-like flirt. At the same instant the books slipped—the chair turned over—and Maurice Montroy found himself on the floor, with his head violently jammed into the basket of strawberries, a bruised elbow and a sprained ankle!

He dragged himself with painful slowness to the window, but even that slight exertion made him feel faint and sick. One figure only was visible in the soft half-light—a slender figure, hurrying past with a footstep he knew well.

"Adela! Mrs. Wayne!"

The young widow paused, in a listening attitude. Maurice raised his accents:

"Adela! For heaven's sake, help me!"

The next minute she and little Ruth were in the room and at his side.

"Don't look so pale and frightened, Adela," he said, half laughing. "It's nothing serious; only a bad sprain. Why, Adela, one would think I was dying."

The color came back once more, in a crimson tide, to her deathly-white cheek. Adela was her busy, helpful self again. Little Ruth ran for the doctor, while Adela bathed the cold dew from Montroy's forehead with cologne, and helped him to the big leather-covered easy-chair, and proceeded to "straighten-up" the room, after a swift, tidy process known only to womankind, while Maurice watched her with soft, strangely interested eyes.

"Adela!"

"Is the ankle worse again?"

"No—I was only thinking—"

"Of what?"

"Of how much nicer my party would be if I had only one guest."

"What nonsense, Maurice!"

"Come here, Adela. Don't be so shy my little bird. The old doctor is plodding up the hill, and I shant have another opportunity to ask you a question that I have wanted to ask this long time."

"About the ice cream?"

"No—not exactly. I want you to promise to be my wife. Quick, puss—the doctor is at the gate. Will you promise?"

"Maurice, you are so sudden."

"Am I? Well, I suppose it's my nature—I love you, Adela. Promise."

"I promise."

And Adela's sweet face was in a flush of roses all over, as the pompous old village doctor entered, leading little Ruth by the hand.

The "party" gradually assembled, kindly taking no notice of the piebald condition of the walls. The strawberries and cream were delicious, the lemonade unexceptionable; and Maurice Montroy, in his big, leather-cushioned easy-chair, the gayest and most cordial of hosts. The belles of the village were radiant in muslins, crepes and tarlatanes. But they were all rather disposed to sneer at Adela Wayne, in her plain black barege.

"What on earth possessed you to invite her," said Helen Graham.

"I'll tell you a secret, Nell," said Maurice, in an arch half-whisper. "I'm going to have another party pretty soon."

"Another party!"

"Yes—a party given to celebrate my marriage. I'm going to be married, Nell."

"To Miss Millerton?"

"No—to Mrs. Wayne."—New York News.

AN ADDER'S BITE.

One Who Was Bitten Describes the Effects of the Venom.

As cases of poisoning from the bite of venomous reptiles are happily rare in this country, it may prove interesting to some of your readers if I relate my experience on this matter.

About a month ago I caught two snakes at Bickleigh, near Plymouth, and while examining one it "bit" or rather struck me on the lower part of the right thumb. I immediately sucked the puncture (it could not be called a wound), which bled a little, and tried to make light of the matter. A livid patch soon formed around the point, and the hand and arm commenced to swell. In a quarter of an hour I was unable to hold anything and almost in a fainting condition. The first symptom (apart from the swelling) was a peculiar taste and a sensation of swelling in the teeth; then the tongue commenced to swell and became so large that I could hardly move it, and my eyes seemed ready to start from their sockets.

In half an hour a terrible vomiting commenced, preceded by excruciating pains in the stomach and heart, and continued with the pains altogether for nine hours, every drop of liquid being ejected almost as soon as swallowed; there was also violent purging and complete suppression of urine.

There was practically no pain in the arm. Altogether the painful symptoms lasted for about nine hours.

I did not lose consciousness at any time. The arm continued to swell for two days, and then it was nearly as large as my leg. After this, the swelling subsided, but the arm did not return to its normal size until twelve days after the accident. After the swelling had gone, I suffered very much from rheumatic pains, and, in fact, do so now, and the digestion was also very much impaired. The viper is a male, a little more than two feet long, and about one inch in diameter at the largest part. Color, a dull, yellowish brown on the upper side, with a zigzag black line running down the whole length. On the under side it is nearly black. I have kept the reptile now for nearly five weeks, and, although well supplied with small frogs, etc., it has not eaten anything, and seems as lively as ever.

Cases of this kind, where the sufferer is able to record the symptoms, being rather unusual, is my excuse in occupying the space of Nature.—W. A. Rudge in London Nature.

THE HAYSEED MUSE.

The campaign in Kansas promises to be more picturesque than usual, judging by the 15-stanza song in honor of Jerry Simpson which was sung at the people's party convention at Wichita last week. Each stanza deserves quoting, but the following will serve as a sample pulsebeat of the Kansas farmer's heart:

I've seen the ballet in New York, with ankles neat and trim,
Where nymphs have skipped and fairies danced, all liberal in limb;
Why, they'd bring down a house composed of stones and sticks and stocks,
But they wouldn't move a Kansas crowd like Jerry's want of socks.

Some time since a miner working in the mines at Avenmore, Pa., discovered a petrified snake. The form was intact, the eyes and mouth being plainly discernible, the total length being about three feet, and about one and one-half inches in thickness. READY FOR SCHOOL.

Schools and Teachers Ready for Fall Work.

Now is a Time When a Little Help is of Great Value.

Principal Camp Tells About Keeping the Mind Bright.

Vacation days are over.

Lads and lassies, and those whose kind instruction leads them in the way they should go, are back from the sea-shore, the country, the mountains, and are ready for school.

Toledo parents and teachers should see that the store of nervous vitality acquired in the summer vacation is not impaired by too close attention to school duties. Above all, they should see that the nervous system is strong and vigorous. No educator has a wider circle of friends than Principal L. L. Camp of Dwight school, New Haven, Con. The following letter is epecially pertinent and valuable at this time. He writes:

"I have taken several bottles of Paine's celery compound, not because I was sick, but because I wanted to keep well. I believe in keeping well, and can do so best by the use of this helper of nature."

No better proof of the purity of this medicine and its fitness for the delicate nervous system of the child can be shown than the experience of A. W. Fisher, a reporter on the Daily Times-Press of Bay City, Mich. He writes:

"My children, Florence, Clarence, and Demott, are now all enjoying excellent health since they used Paine's celery compound, though before they were weak and run down. I credit their strength and vigor entirely to their liberal use of the compound."

When there is complaint of headache, loss of appetite, languid feelings, sleeplessness, and indigestion, whether in adult or child, there should be no delay in giving Paine's celery compound. It is not a sarsaparilla, nervine, or bitters, but a physician's prescription. It is entirely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and takes the weak and nervous and makes them strong and well.

Teachers, scholars, and all who are in need of a strength-giver will find that nothing equals the means which Principal Camp used to keep well.

SHE AMAZED THE CZAR

And Mystified a Whole Company of Royalties.

Miss Bentley at Copenhagen—A Report of An Actual Scene During the Recent Golden Wedding Festivities.

A London correspondent writes: "Have you printed an account of the visit of the magnetic Miss Bentley to Copenhagen during the royal golden wedding festivities there? If not you ought by all means to do so."

Miss Bentley rather surprised the czar by some of her experiments. He keenly watched the efforts of the Prince Royal of Greece to push to the ground a billiard cue lightly held by Miss Bentley in her hands, and with considerable alacrity he took his nephew's place after he had failed. The czar grasped the cue with both hands, and put his enormous strength into the effort to get the point of the cue to the ground. It bent and quivered, but all his efforts, like those of his predecessor, were in vain.

But still a greater surprise was in store for the czar. He placed his hands under Miss Bentley's elbows and lifted; upwent the young English girl until her fair hair almost touched the ceiling. Then Mr. Cumberland explained that on that occasion Miss Bentley had allowed herself to be lifted, but when his majesty next tried he would find it impossible to move her. The czar smiled. But the smile quickly gave way to a look of perplexity when all his efforts to lift her the hundredth part of an inch from the ground was unavailing. Still more surprised was he when Miss Bentley, lightly resting her fingers against the wall, resisted the efforts of various members of the royal party to push her against the wall.

The experiment with a chair, in which Miss Bentley, by merely placing a hand on each side of the back of the chair with the thumbs slightly curved, lifted a person seated thereon, excited the czar's profound attention, and he sat on the chair and was lifted. Then the Prince Royal of Greece sat upon his majesty's knees, and up went the chair. To them were added the Crown Prince of Denmark and the Duke of Cumberland—one emperor, two future kings and one king in posse. Never was there so much royalty upon one single chair before. The chair was grasped by Miss Bentley as before and up it went—emperor, princes and all—three or four inches from the ground. The czar's first look was of surprise, his second one of warm congratulation.

CONSIDERATION FOR WOMEN.

Have the Men Lost All Feeling of Chivalry.

It is a question that depends a good deal upon the point of view, whether consideration for women in public places be not vanishing as a characteristic of American men. There are those who insist that it is not, but I fear that their point of view is not that of the passenger in the conveyances or on the streets of our large cities. To one who is daily forced to observation in this extensive field there is little chance for doubt. It is not that women do not receive the prompt and unfailing courtesy that was formerly accorded to them, but they are treated with a cool and impudent rudeness, with a lack, not merely of gentleness, but of respect, that I believe would have been impossible to our fathers. They are not only allowed to stand in public vehicles when men are seated, but they are subjected, in ways that it is as needless as it would be offensive to describe, to annoyance, and, not to put too fine a point on it, to insult. "Time beyond which the memory of man runneth not" is not required to bridge the interval between the present and the days when these things were impossible. We do not need to go back to the ante-bellum period to recall a state of public opinion, for instance, that would have made drunkenness and foul language in the presence of women impossible. They are not impossible now. They are frequent. It is hardly too much to say that in New York they are common.

It is easier—and safer—to speculate on the cause of this humiliating change than to find—and apply—a remedy. The great increase in the proportion of persons of foreign birth or descent, and of the uneducated classes, has something to do with it. The immensely greater volume of humanity in motion on public thoroughfares and on the passenger lines, and the corresponding greater difficulty in enforcing the standard of conduct held by the minority, is another cause. The fact that the behavior of employes and the officials of corporations, as of the municipality, reflects the "average" impulses and ideas of the mass, counts for much. But the disagreeable fact remains. I recall the remark of the Italian officer who received rudeness in such circumstances that he could not resent it, from the son of the great German chancellor, accompanied by the loud announcement, "I am Count Herbert von Bismarck!" "The explanation is sufficient, the apology is not."—Edward Everett Hall in Scribner's.

THE TRUE LAXATIVE PRINCIPLE

Of the plants used in manufacturing the pleasant remedy, Syrup of Figs, has a permanently beneficial effect on the human system, while the cheap vegetable extracts and mineral solutions, usually sold as medicines, are permanently injurious. Being well-informed, you will use the true remedy only. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

The mental condition of Guy de Maupassant is reported to be much worse. During his incarceration in a private insane asylum the furniture of his suit of rooms in Paris has been sold and his yacht, the Bel-Ami, is in the market.

DIXON KILLS THE SHARK.

He and His Boy Fight the Monster in a Shallow Cove.

Elizabeth, Sept. 5.—There is great rejoicing among the Elizabethport oystermen over the capture of the big shark that for the past week has been prowling around the waters of Newark bay, scaring those who were out in small boats and annoying the watermen. Alexander Dixon is the hero. He fought a battle with the monster in a small cove two and a half miles below Elizabethport, on the Staten Island shore. With his oar he killed the shark. His boy helped him to club it to death.

Dixon was rowing along the shore in his skiff, his boy handling the oars, while he had a crab net in his hand. Just opposite Prall's Creek, Dixon saw the shark swimming towards the boat, which was then in shallow water. He dropped the crab net, seized his oyster tongs, opened them, and as the shark swam close to the skiff he plunged the tongs upon it and nabbed it. The shark turned quickly, and Dixon thought the head of his tongs was wrenched off.

The frightened fish wriggled itself loose and plunged into the cove. Dixon told his boy to pull the boat in and cut off the shark's retreat. They pursued it to the upper end of the cove, where the water was quite shallow. When it attempted to swim out they fell upon it with their oars until they thought it was dead.

They undertook to tie a rope around the shark, and it threw its tail around and almost knocked Dixon off his feet. He began then to club the shark. It floundered around until it was dead. Then Dixon and his boy put the rope around the head and towed the shark in triumph to Elizabethport, where a wagon was procured and it was carted to a blacksmith shop on Elizabeth avenue. It was dissected and placed on exhibition.

A crowd of curious oystermen inspected the shark and afterwards held a jollification in Henry Schrieder's saloon next door, where free chowder was served. A band of music was hired to help honor the event.

The shark measures over eight feet in length, two feet across the back and weighs nearly four hundred pounds. It is the shovel-nosed species, and has ugly rows of sharp teeth in its capacious mouth, and made several attempts to bite Dixon, and snapped a big piece out of the oar.

Dixon is 50 years old and has followed oystering all his life. Several years ago he had a fierce battle with a big sword fish in the Kills. It made a hole through his boat with its tusk; Dixon wounded the fish with his hatchet, but failed to kill it.

SELF PRAISE.

Self praise is no recommendation, but there are times when one must permit a person to tell the truth about himself. When what he says is supported by the testimony of others no reasonable man will doubt his word. Now, to say that Allcocks' Porous Plasters are the only genuine and reliable porous plasters made is not self praise in the slightest degree. They have stood the test for over thirty years, and in proof of their merits it is only necessary to call attention to the cures they have effected and to the voluntary testimonials of those who have used them.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

PUMPS VS. PRESSURE.

The Gas Trustees Decide to Adopt the Former.

Meeting of the Gas Board Saturday Afternoon—The Buckeye Brewery Case.

T. P. Brown attended his first meeting since his appointment of the gas trustees Saturday afternoon.

A communication was read from the sinking fund trustees, already published in the Bee, offering to take $30,000 worth of bonds on condition that the board deposit $20,000 of its earnings with the sinking fund trustees.

This was agreed to, and it was decided to advertise for pumps on the following specifications.

Six or more 100-horse power boilers.

Two or more gas pumping engines, with 24-inch steam cylinders; 24-inch gas cylinders, and 30-inch stroke.

One feed water heater, of suitable size.

Two or more boiler feed pumps.

One electric light plant, of sufficient capacity to properly light said pumping station.

Also the drilling of one or more water wells; and the construction of a reservoir, or tanks, to contain the water necessary for the operation of the above pumping station.

Also such other machinery and appliances as may be necessary for the completion of such pumping station.

All bidders must furnish copies of plans and specifications, to be on file at the office of the natural gas trustees.

The work bid for must be begun as soon as the contract is awarded, and bidders must specify time in which they will complete the work, which must be within 60 days from its commencement.

Bidders must guarantee a gas pumping station complete and in operation, capable of delivering 15,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day, through a 10-inch pipe line, at the city of Toledo.

Bids will be received for part or all of the work advertised.

The Buckeye Brewing company in a communication denied in toto the charge of illegally using gas, and presented a counter claim for money advanced the city to lay mains to the brewery. The matter was referred to the city solicitor.

HE HAD SEEN HER BEFORE.

"I pride myself of never forgetting a face, but as a nomenclator I am far-reaching, iridescent failure," said A. G. Smoot, as he brushed the crumbs of the Lindell table d'hote out of his whiskers. "Some years ago I was in a Boston street car when a lady entered with whose face I was very familiar. I felt that I knew her well, but to save me I could not recall her name. I shook hands with her, asked after her health and tried to make myself very agreeable. She treated me to ice water, but that is a peculiarity of Boston women, so I didn't mind it. Finally she told me frankly that she had not the pleasure of my acquaintance. That bluffed me, but I handed her my card. She read the name and shook her head. She was quite sure that she had never heard of me. I subsided and put on my thinking cap. Was she making game of me, or was it possible that I was mistaken? I couldn't make it out. That night I went to the theater and the mystery was solved. The woman I knew so well, but who had never heard of me, was that queen of tragedy, Mrs. D. P. Bowers."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

S.S.S. CURES SCROFULA

Mrs. E. J. Rowell, Medford, Mass., says her mother has been cured of Scrofula by the use of four bottles of S.S.S. after having had much other treatment, and being reduced to quite a low condition of health, as it was thought she could not live.

S.S.S. Cured my little boy of hereditary scrofula which appeared all over his face. For year I had given up all hope of his recovery, when finally was induced to use a few bottles cured him, and no S.S.S. symptoms of the disease remain.

A MOTHER OF

TRIPLETS

Tries DR. HAND'S COLIC CURE and Secures Rest After

Three Sleepless Nights

MARLBORO, Ohio, April 14, 1892.

The Hand Medicine Co.

DEAR SIRS:—Having used nearly four bottles of your Colic Cure, I forward you this testimonial, hoping it may benefit many mothers with suffering babies. I am the happy mother of triplets, all girls; now 14 weeks old. When they were about 3 weeks old they were taken with a very severe attack of wind colic. There were three days and nights I had two of them in my arms nearly all the time. I tried all the remedies I had ever heard of without any relief. A sample of your Colic Cure was handed me, which I used with the very best results, and I sent for more at once and I shall recommend it to every mother. I feel there is no language strong enough to express its value. I have also used several of the other Remedies and found each to be exactly as you represented them to be. I trust the Lord will forever bless you for procuring a remedy to relieve suffering innocence.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

King's Circular.

C. A. King & Co.'s circular has the following interesting facts from the famous Boy Solomon:

Frost—It was unofficially reported early yesterday that there had been a frost here. The weather man is sleeping with his frost eye open, and says there was none. He says the average date of the first killing frost here is September 28. The earliest known was on September 8, and the latest October 15. He would rather predict the first frost correctly than have a small raise of salary.

Agricultural bureau report for September will be issued Saturday. It will be an important one, giving the condition of winter wheat at harvest and harvest and spring wheat for September, as well as corn and potatoes. The last report on winter wheat was in July, when the average condition was 89.6, a steady improvement from the April report. Spring wheat in August 87.3, and we do not think it has improved any. Corn was 82.5 in August, and 91 last September against 70 in September, 1890.

Price of wheat now is as low as in 1887 and lower than on any other recent year at this time. tI frequently advances from September to December. Corn, oats, rye and clover seed are all a trifle above the average. Rye feels the lack of export demand this season.

Receipts here continue large, but our advices to-day show much smaller shipments from Indiana and Illinois. There is considerable wheat from aKnsas due here next week, which will make receipts here as large as they have been. Last half September will see much smaller receipts here.

The people of the Blackstone valley are in a flutter of excitement over the electric railroad which has been in process of construction for several weeks. The residents of Wilkinsonville, Saundersville, Fisherville, and Farnumsville, are looking forward with much interest to the time when they are to have electric transportation to Worcester. There is also talk of connecting Milbury with Farnumsville by the electric line.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is one of the few remedies which are recommended by every school of medicine. Its strength, purity and efficacy are too well established to admit of doubt as to its superiority over all other blood-purifiers whatever. Ayer's Sarsaparilla leads all.

The farmer sells tons of water and gets a good price for it. A ton of potatoes contains over 1,800 pounds of water, and large quantities of water exist in all foods. The solid portions of milk average about 12 per cent., and the farmer who sells milk, therefore, sells about 88 per cent. of water. As different quantities of milk are obtained, the milk from some cows is watered more that that from others, and the cow varies the solids of her milk according to the amount and kind of food consumed, and the water drank by her.

SAFEGUARD AGAINST CHOLERA.

The practical question which concerns us in this country is the danger to which we are exposed. This is not very great. In the first place the fact of the existence of the disease is known, and in such matters to be forewarned is emphatically to be forearmed. Second, the period of incubation of cholera is very short, being from a few hours to three days. Consequently, should any person infected board one of the ships coming here the disease would manifest itself before the arrival of the vessel. The advantage of this is obvious; no vessel could arrive here with cholera on board without the quarantine physicians finding or hearing of cases. The outbreak of typhus, which occurred in this city some months ago was produced by people who, owing to the long incubation of the typhus, passed quarantine while apparently well. Of course, the germs might come here in rags, but the chances that rags have of passing without disinfection are extraordinarily small nowadays. As water and food are the carriers of the germs, it follows that these must be carefully watched should the disease find a lodgment here. It is most fortunate that the cholera bacillus can neither stand heat nor cold. A few days of sharp frost will stamp an epidemic of the disease out. Food must be eaten while hot and fresh from the fire, and water, in cholera times, must be boiled.—Cyrus Edson, M. D., in North American Review.

THE MODERN CANOE.

Canoes are now built for special purposes, and one canoe is not expected to fill every need. The open Canadian style is used for pleasure paddling either with the single or double blade, and even sailing men bring these boats to camp, in addition to their racing canoes for general use—and "girling." Open canoes, built light and sharp, are also used in the paddling races, the trophy, tandem, single-blade event, and the club fours. The superiority of the double-blade paddle over the single was clearly shown in the race of club fours. The Springfield and New York crews came in first and second with double blades, and the Pointe Claire (Canadian) and Puritan (Boston) crews were third and fourth with single blades. This event gave a fine exhibition of paddling, the Springfield crew winning easily simply because it had trained together and kept perfect time. The others were somewhat ragged. The paddling events were all contested, and showed a renewed interest in this class of racing, but the sailing men do not paddle, nor do the paddling men sail.—Harper's Weekly.

WOMEN IN THE FIELD OF ART WORK.

The large art schools of the country significantly indicate the direction art is taking. Among them the Woman's Art School of the Cooper Union affords a suggestive example; and its sister schools throughout the country tell the same story of the broadened intellectual life of women. When we allude to the schools of Boston, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Washington, and mention the new buildings that have lately been erected for museums and schools in Minneapolis, Cincinnati and Chicago, and speak of the art departments connected with Harvard or Yale, in which women have equal opportunities with men for study; to say nothing of the studios filled with art collections at such women's colleges as Vassar, Wellesley and Smith, we see how large a field art now occupies; without counting the myriad children now learning to draw in the public schools of the United States.—Mrs. Susan N. Carter, in North American Review.

DOUBTED VICTORIA'S HONESTY

An Old Scotchwoman Lends the Queen Her Very Worst Umbrella.

It is well known that the queen, when residing at Balmoral castle, loves to go about in simple guise among the poor cotters of the neighboring district, and in the course of her journeyings incidents worthy of recording occasionally happen.

One of these, which may prove of interest, is the following:

One day her majesty was caught in a shower and entered the dwelling of an old woman, whose eyesight must have been dim, for she did not recognize her sovereign.

"Will you lend me an umbrella?" said the queen, who did not happen to have one with her.

The old woman stared at her questioner for some little time, but at last, seemingly convinced as to the respectability of her visitor, in a grudging tone replied:

"I hae two umbrellas. Ane o' them's a gude ane and t'ither's maur as auld and worthless as mysel'. Ye may tak' the auld one, but I doobt I'll maybe ne'er see't ag'n."

She then proffered a ragged article, whose whalebone ribs might be seen sticking here and there through the torn cover. Her majesty took the umbrella, which was better than nothing and went forth in the rain, not by one word betraying her rank. The next day a servant of the royal household brought the wretched gamp to the old woman, who then became aware as to whom she had lent it.

"Ay, ay," exclaimed the old body, shocked and grieved at having missed an opportunity of winning a smile from the queen. "Dod keep's, but the tongue's an unruly member. Had I but ken wha it was that asked it the len', I wad hae made her welcome to the best o' a' I hae i' this warl' and I houp her highness will forgi'e me, and no tak' it ill-aff for me bein' sae scrimpit and onneeborly wi' 'er."

WOLF VENGENCE.

Did the Pack Kill Him Because He Had Fooled Them?

During one of my hunting and fishing excursions in Louisiana I was fishing on a lake two or three miles long and from one-quarter to one-half mile wide. On one side the hill land came down near the lake, leaving about one-quarter mile of sand beach, and while there I saw a deer running at the top of its speed toward the lake, and a moment later a wolf appeared in hot pursuit. Expecting them to plunge into the lake, when I could overtake and kill them both in the water, I kept my place. Just before the deer reached the water it was caught by the wolf, which pulled it down and killed it. Then the wolf stalked around, looked about, trotted off some distance and set up a howl, went further and again howled and then into the woods, when I heard more howling.

The wolf being out of sight, I rowed my boat to the place and got the deer and then went back to my fish-hooks. Shortly there appeared on the scene a pack of ten or twelve wolves. They sniffed and moved all around where the deer had been killed. These movements occupied considerable time. They would huddle together, change about and trot in all directions, keeping close together. Finally they got into a fight; the whole pack attacked one wolf and killed it. It was literally bitten and chewed to pieces. Now, what was the wolf killed for? The probability is, and I am almost positive, that the dead wolf was the one that killed the deer. I have talked to many hunters upon this subject, and have come across but two who have seen anything similar, and they thought the wolf had been killed for lying. If it was done in the case I saw for lying it was the only time I ever knew a wolf to be killed wrongfully.—Forest and Stream.

HOW IT RESULTED.

"I once had a boxing match with Sullivan," said the citizen who was full of reminescence.

"Go 'way. You don't say so!" replied the little man who liked athletics.

"Yes. It was a great match. You see, I led, and he countered."

"Yes, yes."

"Then we had a short clinch, and then——"

"I know!" said the little man, excitedly. "I've tried those tactics myself. Then you hit and he feinted, and——"

"No; you're wrong. He hit and I fainted."—Washington Star.

SOON TO BE PLUCKED.

The last bit of summer selling soon to be accomplished—much to do in the few remaining summer days—that we may be ready for the avalanche of New Goods now being bought and arriving

Mr. Bamber is East buying heavily.

Mr. McKelvey is in New York hurrying along his large purchase of Fall and Winter Wraps and Suits.

Mr. Drummond is in New York carefully looking through the market for the best things in Linens, White Goods, Blankets, Flannel and other Fabrics that he buys.

Mr. Fisher with able assistants is constantly in the markets. Buying more than a million Dollars of Dry Goods each year as he does—it is easy to understand that we possess many advantages over those who buy in a smal l wa.
